'Black '47' - An Gorta Mór

"Black '47" is now showing in cinemas throughout Ireland and overseas. This film, directed by Lance Daly, portrays Ireland during 1847 the worst year of the Great Famine of 1845-51/52.

Paul Whitington of the 'Irish Independent' summed up this film nicely—"Black 47 succeeds magnificently in evoking the misery of the Famine while simultaneously treating us to a rattling adventure yarn. Its ambition is admirable."

While, movies and novels provide a dramatized portrayal of the most catastrophic event ever to befall the Irish people, family historians and local historians seeking to discover the real story are fortunate to have publications like the 'Maynooth Studies in Local History' published by Four Courts Press.

There are now 139 volumes in the series in print and many cover the famine years, for example, three of the latest volumes deal with BEFORE, DURING and AFTER the Great Famine (An Gorta Mór).

BEFORE: We have the story of an improving landlord, alas they were all too few. 'Thomas Bermingham - Nineteenth-century Irish land agent and 'Improver'' by Cathal Smith [ISBN: 978-1-84682-720-4 : 64pp : P/bk : ills : Price €9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 138. This study investigates the career of Thomas Bermingham, a professional land agent who was widely known in his day for his management of the Clonbrock estates in Galway and Roscommon between 1826 and 1843. It focuses on Bermingham's efforts to manage and 'modernize' the Clonbrock estates. In the process, new light is shed upon the history of both Irish land agents and the culture of 'improvement' that rose to prominence throughout rural Ireland during the first half of the 19th century.

DURING: We have a study on one of the areas hardest hit by the Famine – west Cork. 'The Great Famine in Kinsale' by Catherine Flanagan [ISBN: 978-1-84682-723-5 : 64pp : P/bk : ills : Price 9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 134. This book examines the impact of the Great Famine on the people of Kinsale and surrounding countryside. It shows how famine, death and disease took their toll on one class in particular – the poor. The Kinsale workhouse was hopelessly overcrowded and, in early 1847, the parish priest of Kinsale described members of his flock as starving creatures – worn, emaciated and feeble – in whose skeletal faces he could scarcely recognize a single feature. These conditions precipitated a chain of social dislocation, emigration, disease and death.

Two of the latest volumes on the Famine

AFTER: Many localised famines occurred right throughout the 19th century and especially in the poorest parts of the country. 'Fleeing from famine in Connemara- James Hack Tuke and his assisted emigration scheme in the 1880s' by Gerard Moran [ISBN: 978-1-84682-721-1 : 64pp : P/bk : ills : Price €9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 135. Between 1882 and 1884, the English Quaker and philanthropist James Hack Tuke assisted nearly 5,000 people, mainly families, to emigrate from Connemara – paying for their passage and arranging for their settlement in Canada and the United States. The objectives of the Tuke Fund were to remove the surplus population and create viable holdings for those who remained, and initiate chain migration.

CULTURE NIGHT

The Society will be participating in Culture Night again this year at the DLR Lexicon on Friday September 21st 2018.

Eddie Gahan and his excellent team will be out in force to provide Free Family History Advice to visitors at the wonderful new Library in Dún Laoghaire. The DLR Lexicon is located on the seafront overlooking the magnificent 19th century harbour and Dublin Bay.

So if you're in Dún Laoghaire or indeed, in the Dublin region, call by the DLR Lexicon from 17.00hrs to 22.00hrs to meet the team.

Have you visited An Daonchartlann at the DLR Loughlinstown Leisure Centre?

Maynooth Studies in Local History—136, 137 & 139

Here are a further three of the 2018 batch of six of the Maynooth Studies in Local History series published by Four Courts Press under the general editorship of Dr. Raymond Gillespie of the National University of Ireland, Maynooth (NUIM). The first two bring us to County Westmeath. 'The Parnell split in Westmeath - The bishop and the newspaper editor' by Michael Nolan [ISBN: 978-1-84682-719-8 : P/bk : 64pp : ills : Price €9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 136. This book tells the story of the Parnell split in Westmeath and argues that it was part of a wider revolt by a section of the Catholic middle class against the dominant role of the Church in the politics of the county. The dispute in Westmeath was characterized by the enmity between the local Catholic bishop Dr Thomas Nulty, a passionate anti-Parnellite, and Parnellite newspaper editor John P. Hayden. Hayden was representative of the emergent Catholic middle class and a thorn in the side of Nulty long before Parnell's divorce became an issue in Irish politics. When the Parnell crisis broke the two were pitted against each other once again. In the ensuing struggle, Hayden used his newspaper, the Westmeath Examiner, not just to support the Parnellite cause but also to roundly condemn his clerical opponents, prompting the bishop to ban the faithful from reading the paper. Although the bishop and his clergy emerged as the clear winners in the Parnell dispute, Hayden was far from vanquished. Following the death of Nulty in 1898, he went on to play a prominent role in the constitutional nationalist movement, both in Westmeath and in his native Roscommon.

'Tristernagh Priory, Co. Westmeath - Colonial monasticism in medieval Ireland' by Tadhg O'Keeffe [ISBN: 978-1-84682-718-1 : P/bk : 64pp : ills : Price €9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 137. Little remains of the Augustinian priory of Tristernagh, Co. Westmeath, founded by Geoffrey de Costentin around the year 1200 and dedicated to the Blessed Virgin Mary. Its domestic buildings were apparently lost in the two centuries after its dissolution in 1536, but its church remained largely intact until shortly before the end of the 18th century when the landlord who owned the site embarked on a programme of demolition. Although some medieval fabric survived, an important link with the world of the Middle Ages was severed. Medieval sources allow an evaluation of the role of the priory and its community in the Anglo-Norman settlement of the west midlands. Study of its architecture, based on the fragmentary physical remains and on two late 18th-century illustrations, reveals its church to have been an important early Gothic work, and is a reminder that, even in such frontier locations as the western half of the lordship of Meath, Anglo-Norman colonialism had an aesthetic manifestation.

The last in the series for 2018 the significance of the memorial blown up in Derry City in 1973 leaving an empty, but nevertheless powerfully symbolic, plinth today. 'The Walker Testimonial and symbolic conflict in Derry' by Heather Stanfield [ISBN: 978-1-84682-722-8 : P/bk : 64pp : ills : Price €9.95 : Web Price €8.95] No. 139. How did one 19th-century memorial to a 17th-century figure come to be so significant in the city of Derry that it would generate conflict for nearly 200 years? How has the struggle over its symbolism been borne out over that time? Who perpetuates it, and to what end? This book explores these questions and takes as its central focus the history and commemoration of the Walker Testimonial as a means of examining the social and cultural tensions of memory and identity in Irish and Northern Irish history.

DONATIONS TO THE SOCIETY

The past eighteen months have been extremely challenging for the Society. The closure of the facility at the Carlisle Pier and the relocation to Loughlinstown placed a heavy burden on the Society's financial reserves.

It must be remembered that the Society is funded largely by its Membership

Fees and the kind donations received from Members and friends at home and overseas.

The Society is a Registered Charity in Ireland and is currently considering options for fund raising and grant applications. The possibility of crowdfunding for specific projects is being considered. However, in the meantime it was decided to appeal to our Members and friends for help in defraying these exceptional costs.

Donations can be made on-line via the Society's website or by cheque payable to the Genealogical Society of Ireland and sent to: Shane O'Brien, MGSI, Director of Finance, GSI, 135, Coolevin, Ballybrack, Co. Dublin, A96 C9F7. The Board would like to sincerely thank

GENEALOGY HELP CENTRE

Did you know that this Society operates a "Help Centre" for those researching their family history?

Family history need not be a lonely pilgrimage of discovery with many bumps in a very twisty road of pitfalls. Many of these research problems appear as impenetrable "brick walls" but they are rarely new problems. Many have overcome such and progressed their research with the help and advice of others.

The Society's "Help Centre" is open to the public twice weekly where you can discuss your research problems with experienced researchers who will take you through the available resources. For times and directions please see page 4 of this newsletter.

AN DAONCHARTLANN

The Society's Archive and Research Centre—An Daonchartlann—located at the rear of the DLR Leisure Centre at Loughlinstown, Co. Dublin, has an impressive collection of books, journals, research papers, archival records, microform, CD and digital resources.

Many of the overseas family history journals, for example, contain wonderful information on the Irish abroad. Access to this exceptional body of research on the Irish overseas is not readily available to the public elsewhere in this country.

The Society's original archival collections include school and other institutional registers, deeds, land records and assorted family papers.

In addition, the facility offers online access to a number of the popular pay-for-view websites that have become essential for genealogical research.

One of the most important collections held at the facility is the complete set of the Archival Records of the Irish Jewish Community compiled by Stuart Rosenblatt, PC, FGSI, President of the Genealogical Society of Ireland.

These records are freely available to the GSI Members and for a modest daily research fee to non-Members. New Members are always most welcome.

For directions to the facility please see page 4 of this newsletter. (Photo by Tom Conlon)

IDEAL GIFT IDEAS

Genealogists and local historians love books! So if you have a birthday gift to buy—think books by our Members. Much of the research for these books was undertaken at the Society's Archive & Research Centre—An Daonchartlann.

'Victorian Dún Laoghaire' by Tom Conlon—excellent local history of the town and the first to deal extensively with the poor and "the courts" where they lived. Price: €20.00

'Labour in Kingstown, 1890-1920' by Charlie Callan—explores a much neglected subject—the working class of Kingstown (now Dún Laoghaire and the development of organised labour and its political representation. Price: €10.00 (published privately contact: chascallan@gmail.com)

'Twice Built—The Construction of St. Patrick's Church, Monkstown, Co. Dublin, 1861-66' by Tom Conlon. An intriguing story of "church politics" surrounding the building of a parish church in Dublin. Price €12.00

THIS SOCIETY AT A GLANCE

The Society's objective is to promote an awareness, appreciation and knowledge of our genealogical, heraldic and vexillological heritage at home and overseas amongst our diaspora.

The GSI widely acclaimed as being the most active voluntary genealogical organisation in Ireland hosting Monthly Lectures each month throughout the year and eleven Morning Open Meetings from January to November each year. These are open to the public—everyone is welcome!

We publish a Monthly Newsletter, Annual Journal, operates an Archive and Research Centre and promote genealogy, heraldry and vexillology at events around Ireland through our very active 'Outreach Programme' offering 'Free Family History Advice' to the public, active retirement groups, ladies' clubs and all sorts of community groups.

The Society has a collaborative academic research project with the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, RCSI. The Irish DNA Atlas project was co-designed by population geneticists at the RCSI and this Society coming together to collect DNA samples from individuals with four generations of ancestry linked to specific areas across the island of Ireland. This research has been funded through an Award from Science Foundation Ireland.

We have two 'specialist branches' one for heraldry and the other for vexillology (flags)—the only organisation in Ireland promoting this aspect of our cultural heritage. We maintain a very active on-line presence promoting sustainable contacts with our diaspora.

We also campaign to obtain better public access to our genealogical heritage and records held by the State or other agencies. However, as a registered charity, none of the above would be possible without the generosity of our Members who, through their Annual Subscriptions and volunteerism, provide these services throughout the year.

PLEASE help us to do more by joining the Society—new Members always welcome or by making a donation, no matter how small, to the Society—please see page 2 of this newsletter. Many thanks!

TRACING YOUR IRISH ANCESTORS

by John Grenham, MA, MAPGI, FIGRS, FGSI
The Society strongly recommends to anyone embarking on their family history quest that one essential piece of kit must be, without doubt, a copy of the latest edition of 'Tracing Your Irish Ancestors'. Please checkout the website www.gillmacmillan.com Price €22.99 [RRP].

Précis of the August Lecture

"If those trees could speak" by Frank Tracy – the story of an ascendancy family in Ireland

As usual this lecture was packed with facts and interesting pieces of information and delivered in Frank's very easy style with plenty of insightful and amusing observations to enliven the subject.

When Frank was a young lad in the Scouts he would often camp in the Dublin Mountains near the Hellfire club in an area referred to as Massy's Wood. Nobody seemed to know much about the Massy family and this aroused Frank's curiosity, so he set out to find out as much as he could about the Massy family.

The Massy family came to Ireland in the form of Lieutenant General Hugh Massy in 1649 with Cromwell who paid his adventurers in land, as England was bankrupt after Charles 1. The result of this land grant was that many of the soldiers were not interested in the land and wanted payment. This led to the second Hugh Massy trebling the family's landholdings, mainly in Limerick. He built a church at Duntrileague. Frank went on to cover the various subsequent Massy's so much so that in 1776 the fourth Massy was made a Baron. Hugh 2nd Baron Massey married an heiress in 1760 and this helped clear all the family debts and he died in 1790.

Frank told us about the first case of Criminal Conversation held in Ireland between Rev Charles Massy and Lord Headfort in July 1804, which was won by Massy and he was awarded £10,000 – a fortune at that time. Luke White who was a self-made man, believed to be the richest man in Ireland had a daughter Mathilda who married the 4th Baron Hugh Massy in 1826. This brings us to Killakee House which was near the Hellfire Club. This property along with others came in to the possession of the Massy family through the marriage to Mathilda. Luke White had a son Samuel who married but did not leave an heir. Samuels's death was followed quickly by his wife, so the properties fell to Mathilda who under law was not entitled to own land, consequently the land fell into the ownership of Lord Massy.

The 4th Baron died and his son took over at an early age of nine but he too died young. John Thomas Massy took over the title in 1874 as the 6th Baron Massy of Duntrileague inheriting the Massy/ Whites estates of 34,000 acres plus Killakee House, Hermitage, Lareen House and Massy Lodge.

He loved being a Lord and lived the lifestyle, rarely photographed wearing the same clothes.

He sold off land under the early Land Acts making him extremely rich, however there was no income coming into the family and the consequences of this was felt later on. He spent money very freely on cars and we were shown several photos of new cars and a charabanc to carry all his hunting party friends about. The 6th Baron died in 1915. Hugh Somerset 7th Baron Massy succeeded to the title.

At this stage the family fortunes were very bad and Killakee was put up for sale in February 1916. The Hermitage was burnt down by the IRA in 1920. On the 15th May 1924 the bailiff entered Killakee House and evicted Lord Massy, the 8th Baron Massy of Duntrileague. Massy had married Margaret Moran, a widow with three children and they had a child of their own also called Hugh the 9th baron Massy. She supported him through the years, he was known as the penniless peer.

The talk finished off with the slide of the headstone of Hughie Massy born 1921 and died 5th August 1995 the 9th Baron Massy, Cosby, who was the son of Hugh and Margaret.

This talk can viewed on line at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qW7BwYlcAFM&feature=youtu.be>

There was a Q& A session following the talk and all in all this was a well-received talk about a most absorbing subject. Many thanks to Frank.
